Give strength and hope

Er Lye Kim, 85, was a newspaper seller. A few years after her husband passed away, she was diagnosed with tuberculosis and stopped working.

Her son Tan Shew Sia, a father of three, quit his coffeeshop assistant job to care for her.

Due to her illness, Lye Kim lost her appetite. When she was admitted to St Luke's Hospital, she weighed 28 kg. She did not have the strength to move from bed to wheelchair, much less walk.

With her dietician's help, Lye Kim's appetite and food intake grew. As Lye Kim did not like milk, the dietician provided coffee-flavoured milk supplements, and other energy-dense and flavourful food to help Lye Kim gain weight and strength.

Together with rehabilitation and continuation of her prescribed diet at home, Lye Kim could stand and walk 50 metres with little help.

Initially wheelchair-bound, Er Lye Kim (centre) could stand and walk with little assistance after care at St Luke's Hospital. Her son Shew Sia quit his coffeeshop assistant job to care for her.

Shew Sia, 57, said, "The therapists encouraged my mother to exercise." When Lye Kim visited St Luke's Hospital as an outpatient, nurses remembered her. They chatted with her and "she was very happy".

St Luke's Hospital cares for the whole person, recognising people have more than just physical needs. They also have emotional and psychosocial needs. As a charity hospital, most of our patients are lower income. They may have cancer, pneumonia, dementia, stroke, fractures and may have undergone surgery and amputation.

Your giving helps:

1. Care for the whole person in every ward, including dedicated dementia, palliative and wound wards, and rehabilitation gyms.
2. Provide financial assistance to patients who need medical care, home modifications and transport.
3. Improve access to community healthcare through community clinic and home care services.

St Luke's Hospital cares for 2,000 inpatients and 2,000 outpatients each year. Join us in our mission of enriching lives.

Give to St Luke's Hospital, give hope to patients. Visit slh.org.sg/give for more ways to help patients.
