Improving step by step

Lee Yew Yeow, 85, had a bad fall and was bedridden when he transferred to St Luke's Hospital. He wanted to go home and be able to walk again.

After discharge, he received medical, nursing and rehabilitation from the hospital's home care team.

In his first home physiotherapy session, Yew Yeow did not feel ready to walk. His physiotherapist Samantha Kuan guided him to do some seated and sit-to-stand exercises and to do the exercises daily.

A week later, he walked for the first time since discharge. Two months later, he was able to walk between his living room and the kitchen, using a walking frame.

He said, "It's good that I can receive therapy at home at my own pace. It is important to keep moving. Physical activity is good."

Lee Yew Yeow receives home rehabilitation care. Physiotherapist Samantha Kuan is glad to see him improve step by step. "He has made significant progress," she says.

St Luke's Hospital cares for the whole person, recognising people have more than just physical needs. They also have emotional and psychosocial needs. As a charity hospital, most of our patients are lower income. They may have cancer, pneumonia, dementia, stroke, fractures and may have undergone surgery and amputation.

Your giving helps:

1. Care for the whole person in every ward, including dedicated dementia, palliative and wound wards, and rehabilitation gyms.
2. Provide financial assistance to patients who need medical care, home modifications and transport.
3. Improve access to community healthcare through St Luke's Community Clinic and home care.

St Luke's Hospital cares for 2,000 inpatients and 3,000 outpatients each year.

Give to St Luke's Hospital, give hope to patients. Visit slh.org.sg/give for more ways to help.
