

Home Care

Caring for Your Health, in the Comfort of Home

Is Home Care Right for You?

For homebound individuals with the following needs:

Limited mobility or challenges moving around independently

Needing medical care after discharge

Requiring regular nursing care (e.g. wound dressing, injections, procedures)

Requiring physiotherapy, occupational or speech therapy

Living with complex or chronic health conditions

Seeking end-of-life care and support

The SLH Difference

- Speech Therapy to enhance communication and support safe swallowing
- Music Therapy to enhance emotional wellbeing and pain management

Social & Emotional Support

We journey with you and your family, offering practical, emotional and spiritual guidance along the way:

- Counselling and social work support to address emotional, practical and financial concerns
- Pastoral and spiritual care to bring comfort, hope and purpose

Caregiver Support

We partner with caregivers, equipping them with knowledge, confidence and emotional strength to support their loved one's journey.

- Caregiver education and training on basic nursing skills, safe transfers and mobility assistance
- Guidance on home modifications and fall prevention to create a safer environment
- Counselling and support to strengthen emotional and financial well-being

“ A social worker helped me secure grants to cover my father’s medical expenses while a doctor conducts home consultations once every 3 months for chronic disease management. That alone makes such a big difference. ”
